D Mich 3 Grammar notes

Object pronouns look back in the E and F pamphlets for more detail

- Direct Object pronouns:
  - me, te, le/la, nous, vous, les
- Indirect Object pronouns:
  - me, te, lui, nous, vous, leur (+ y + en)
- Disjunctive pronouns:
  - moi, toi, lui/elle, nous, vous, eux/elles

- Direct object pronouns are used to refer to PEOPLE and THINGS for verbs that do not involve a preposition. They are placed before the conjugated verb or infinitive. When used in the perfect tense, they will cause a PDO agreement with past participles.
  - je les aime beaucoup — tu les as vus?
  - La chaise? je l'ai mise ici. — nous les avons perdus

- Indirect object pronouns are used to refer to PEOPLE only for NON-REFLEXIVE verbs that involve the preposition "à". "Y" is used to refer to things for such verbs. They are placed before the conjugated verb or a dependent infinitive. No PDO agreement is caused as they are not "direct"
  - je lui ai donné le cadeau — tu leur as parlé?
  - Il ne m'a pas parlé — nous lui avons téléphoné

- Disjunctive pronouns are used to refer to PEOPLE only for verbs that involve the preposition "de" (EN is used for things) and REFLEXIVE * verbs that involve the preposition "à" (Y is used for things). Unlike the other two sets of pronouns, disjunctive pronouns are placed after the preposition that necessitates their use.
  - je me méfie de lui — tu te souviens d'eux?
  - elle s'est approchée de moi — vous vous adressez à elle?

 PENSER/VENIR/COURIR/ALLER/FAIRE ATTENTION à qn – exceptions – they use the disjunctive pronouns: je pense à toi, viens à moi!, il a couru à elle…

- Y and EN are both indirect object pronouns, so never cause any sort of PDO agreement with past participles. Though they have several uses, here are some of the main ones:

- Y means THERE and refers to a place. It goes in the usual position.

  - Tu y vas ce soir? Non, j'y suis allé hier.

- Y can also refer THINGS (not people) for verbs that use the preposition "à":

  - Je m'y habitue Je m'y suis abonné

- EN often means "of it", "of them", "some", or "any".

  - Du vin? J'en bois souvent. J'en ai trop bu.

- Any use of a number or quantity in French must use "EN" if the actual item being counted is not specified. It is not possible to say "~~Elle veut trois~~" or "~~combien avez-vous acheté?~~"

  - Elle veut trois pommes Elle en veut trois
  - Vous avez acheté combien de pommes? Vous en avez acheté combien?

- EN can also refer to things (not people) for verbs using the preposition "de":
  See page 29/30 and page 48 of the F pamphlet for more information.

Superlatives

- To use a superlative (the bigGEST, the MOST interesting), simply place "LE/LA/LES PLUS before the ADJECTIVE (agreeing with the noun), wherever it comes. Full details are given in page 24 of the F pamphlet, including irregular forms.

  - le livre le plus intéressant - la plus petite fille - les moins grandes chaises

- If with your superlative you want to say "IN the world, IN the room" etc, French uses DE rather than "dans".

  - La plus jolie fille de la classe
  - Le journal le plus lu du monde

- If with your superlative you want to say "that + verb" you will need a special form of the verb called the subjunctive. This will be covered later on but for now you can just learn a few useful examples:

  - *que j'AIE jamais vu (the past participle will need to agree see p. 18 of the F pamphlet)
    that I have ever seen
  - que je CONNAISSE
    that I know
  - C'est la plus jolie maison que j'aie jamais vue (PDO)
  - C'est le garcon le plus intelligent que je connaisse.
