EW 15 THE SUBJUNCTIVE (1)

Hitherto, the verb forms that you have studied have been part of what is called the «indicative mood»; the subjunctive is another «mood» and it is used in very specific contexts, which you will see later. In English it has all but disappeared from the language or it has taken the form of the indicative, so you are not aware that you are using it. In French, however, it remains an important part of the language.

88. FORMATION OF THE PRESENT SUBJUNCTIVE:

In order to find the subjunctive stem for regular verbs, take the third person plural of the present indicative, remove the -ent and add the subjunctive endings donner :	ils donnent	→	donn vendre :	ils vendent	→	vend	+	-e, -es, -e, -ions, -iez, -ent finir :	ils finissent	→	finiss

Hence . . .

*je donne	*je vende	*je finisse *tu donnes	*tu vendes	*tu finisses *il donne	*il vende	*il finisse *nous donnions	*nous vendions	*nous finissions *vous donniez	*vous vendiez	*vous finissiez
*ils donnent	*ils vendent	*ils finissent

Some verbs, which form the stem in a regular way for most parts of the present subjunctive, change the stem in the nous and vous forms:

boire:	boive, boives, boive, buvions, buviez, boivent prendre:	prenne, prennes, prenne, prenions, preniez, prennent recevoir:	reçoive, reçoives, reçoive, recevions, receviez, reçoivent tenir:	tienne, tiennes, tienne, tenions, teniez, tiennent venir:	vienne, viennes, vienne, venions, veniez, viennent voir:	voie, voies, voie, voyions, voyiez, voient

It follows that compounds of any of the above verbs will go through exactly the same changes:

eg apprendre: apprenne, apprennes, apprenne, apprenions, appreniez, apprennent

With the exception of two verbs (see below) all verbs have the same endings as the above, even though some have an irregular stem. This irregular stem must be learnt separately. Note that in aller, valoir and vouloir the stem changes in the nous and vous forms.

aller: aille, ailles, aille, allions, alliez, aillent faire: fasse, fasses, fasse, fassions, fassiez, fassent il pleut: il pleuve pouvoir: puisse, puisses, puisse, puissions, puissiez, puissent savoir: sache, saches, sache, sachions, sachiez, sachent valoir: vaille, vailles, vaille, valions, valiez, vaillent vouloir: veuille, veuilles, veuille, voulions, vouliez, veuillent

The two verbs with different endings in some of their parts are:

avoir: aie, aies, ait, ayons, ayez, aient [Note particularly the spelling of the 3rd person singular] être: sois, sois, soit, soyons, soyez, soient

89. FORMATION OF THE PERFECT SUBJUNCTIVE

As with the perfect tense of the indicative (the passé composé) the perfect subjunctive is a compound tense, which means that it is made up of two parts:

auxiliary verb in the present subjunctive (either avoir or être) + past participle of the verb

All rules of agreement (and non-agreement) in the perfect subjunctive are exactly the same as for the passé composé in the indicative

Hence:

j'aie fait	je sois venu(e) tu aies fait	tu sois venu(e) il ait fait	il soit venu elle ait fait	elle soit venue nous ayons fait	nous soyons venu(e)s vous ayez fait	vous soyez venu(e)(s) ils aient fait	ils soient venus elles aient fait	elles soient venues

You will possibly not yet understand what the following sentences mean but you can see that there is a preceding direct object agreement on the verb in the perfect subjunctive:

Il a attendu que je les aie finies

Il faut que tu les aies finies avant ce soir

WHEN TO USE THE SUBJUNCTIVE

Caution: The subjunctive is used in the circumstances which appear below. It will become clear that in many cases the subjunctive is used after que; do not assume that it will always be used after que. If in doubt, assume that you will be using the indicative unless there is a case for using the subjunctive as defined below.

90. After certain conjunctions

- The subjunctive will ALWAYS be used after:

although	:	bien que (two words) or quoique (one word) supposing that	:	supposé que provided that	:	pourvu que
not that	:	non que
unless	:	à moins que + ne before the verb

Although he is happy he refuses to speak	Bien qu'il soit heureux il refuse de parler
I will do it provided I am paid	Je le ferai pourvu qu'on me paie
We will go out unless it rains	Nous sortirons à moins qu'il ne pleuve

- IF THERE IS A DIFFERENT SUBJECT either side of the conjunction the subjunctive will be used after:

without	:	sans que
in order that	:	pour que or afin que before	:	avant que
for fear that / lest	:	de peur que + ne before the verb or de crainte que + ne before the verb

We did it without him knowing	Nous l'avons fait sans qu'il le sache
Let's go now for fear that he wants to come	Partons maintenant de peur qu'il ne veuille venir
I got up in order that she could sit down	Je me suis levé pour qu'elle ait pu s'asseoir
We had lunch before she went out	Nous avons déjeuné avant qu'elle soit sortie

- IF THERE IS NOT A DIFFERENT SUBJECT either side of the conjunction use an infinitive after:

without	sans	in order that / to	pour or afin de before	avant de	for fear that / of	de peur de or de crainte de

We did it without knowing he was there	Nous l'avons fait sans savoir qu'il était là
I got up in order to switch on the radio	Je me suis levé pour allumer la radio
We had lunch before we went out	Nous avons déjeuné avant de sortir

- NEVER use the subjunctive after:

as soon as	:	dès que or aussitôt que
after	:	après que

whenever : chaque fois que

91. How to translate UNTIL until + NOUN : jusqu'à Until her arrival Jusqu'à son arrivée until + VERB : jusqu'à ce que + SUBJUNCTIVE (`to wait until' is an exception) We read until he told us to stop Nous avons lu jusqu'à ce qu'il nous ait dit de nous arrêter to wait until + VERB : attendre que + SUBJUNCTIVE They waited until we finished Ils ont attendu que nous ayons fini not . . . until + VERB : ne . . . que lorsque + INDICATIVE (possibly future/conditional)

- think of this as meaning `only . . . when'; never split up the que lorsque

  - I will not open it until he arrives - Je ne l'ouvrirai que lorsqu'il arrivera
