EW 4 Reflexive verbs

21. Verbs which are used reflexively (i.e. with reflexive pronouns) are more frequent in French than in English. Such verbs need to be learnt with their reflexive pronoun BUT when you use them YOU MUST USE THE CORRECT REFLEXIVE PRONOUN FOR THE SUBJECT.

Some examples

to open (INTRANS.)	:	s'ouvrir	La porte s'est ouverte
to meet (INTRANS.)	:	se rencontrer	Nous nous sommes rencontrés hier
to know one another	:	se connaître	Vous ne vous connaissez pas?
to write to one another	:	s'écrire	Ils s'écrivent régulièrement

22. In compound tenses reflexive verbs are ALWAYS conjugated with ETRE

egs.	she stopped	:	elle s'est arrêtée
	I had remembered	:	je m'étais souvenu(e)
	we shall have washed	:	nous nous serons lavé(e)s
	I would have apologised:		je me serais excusé(e)

23. Past participle agreement with reflexive verbs in compound tenses

The reflexive pronoun must be thought of as an ordinary pronoun : if it is a preceding direct object the past participle will have the appropriate agreement; if it is an indirect object there will be no agreement. In the majority of cases it will be a direct object and thus there will be an agreement.

To find out if the pronoun is direct or indirect ask yourself if the basic verb, before it was made reflexive, takes a direct or indirect object of the person:

se laver:	laver quelqu'un therefore the se is a direct object	elle s'est lavée
se demander:	demander à quelqu'un thus the se is an indirect object	elle s'est demandé_

It follows that there will be no agreement with, for example, any of the following verbs:

se rappeler (to remember)	: elle s'est rappelé son adresse	(rappeler à qn)
se dire	: elle s'est dit que ….	(dire à qn)
se rendre compte (to realise)	: ils se sont rendu compte que ….	(rendre compte à qn)
se faire

Quite simply, the rule for the agreement of the past participle is the same as the one for verbs taking avoir in past tenses: if there is a PDO the past participle agrees with the PDO; if there is a preceding INDIRECT object there is no agreement.

Note also the following cases where there will be no agreement of the past participle:

i) with reflexive pronouns that denote action done to a part of the body

She brushed her hair	Elle s'est brossé les cheveux
We washed our hands	Nous nous sommes lavé les mains
They wiped their mouths	Ils se sont essuyé la bouche

ii) where the reflexive pronoun means TO / FOR ONE ANOTHER or FOR ONESELF

We wrote to one another	Nous nous sommes écrit	(écrire à qn)
She bought herself a new hat	Elle s'est acheté un nouveau chapeau	(acheter à qn)

24. To Remember : DISTINGUISH between the 2 possible structures

i) se rappeler qch	ils se sont rappelé le nom de la rue
ii) se souvenir de qch	ils se sont souvenus du nom de la rue

25. A reflexive verb is sometimes used to render the English passive Learn these examples:

That is said / That is done	:	Cela se dit / Cela se fait
Cigarettes are sold at the café:		Les cigarettes se vendent au café

Note particularly the use of SE FAIRE + INFINITIVE which is sometimes the equivalent of the English `to be ------ed' (literally `to get oneself ------ed'

eg She was run over	Elle s'est fait écraser	[NEVER an agreement on fait + INF]
They were arrested	Ils se sont fait arrêter	[NEVER an agreement on fait + INF]
We were photographed	Nous nous sommes fait photographier	[NEVER an agreement on fait + INF]

26. Some common reflexive verbs that always take DE before a noun to approach something/s.o.	s'approcher DE	to do without sthg	:	se passer DE

to use something:	se servir DE	to mistrust s.o./sthg	:	se méfier DE
to apologise for sthg:	s'excuser DE	to make fun of	:	se moquer DE

The past participles of all these verbs agree with the reflexive pronoun in compound tenses.

27. Use of « celui, celle, ceux, celles»

These words are pronouns (replacing nouns) and must take the number and gender of the noun they replace.

celui (masc. sing); celle (fem sing); ceux (masc plur); celles (fem plur)

They are used in three ways only and are never used without one of -ci/là; de; qui/que/dont:

i) with -ci and là to mean "this one" or "that one" or "these"

Quelles voitures? - Celles-ci ou celles-là?	Which cars? - These or those?

ii) with de to convey the English ---'s or ---s'

Je n'ai pas vu ta maison mais j'ai vu celle de Paul	[...] but I have seen Paul's iii) with qui or que to mean "the one[s] which"

Celle que j'ai vue était grande — The one I saw was big or dont to mean "the one[s] of which/the one about which"

Ceux dont tu parles sont les miens — Those you are talking about are mine or dont when the verb following the pronoun takes de before a noun

Celles dont j'ai besoin sont plus petites — Those I need are smaller

Note also `the [ADJECTIVE] one'/ `the [ADJECTIVE] ones'
Just le/la/les + adjective (nb MAKE ADJECTIVE AGREE WITH THE NOUN REFERRED TO) the tall one :	le grand/la grande	the red one : le rouge/la rouge

the round ones :	les ronds/les rondes	the other ones : les autres
