EW 10 USES OF THE IMPERFECT TENSE

60. USES OF THE IMPERFECT TENSE

a) to describe a person or a scene

she wore a black coat	:	Elle portait un manteau noir
The road wound through the forest	:	La route serpentait à travers la forêt
The fields stretched out in front of him	:	les champs s'étendaient devant lui

Whenever they saw her	:	Chaque fois qu'ils la voyaient

BUT NB when the period of time is defined the verb must be in the perfect tense:

She went there every day for 5 years	:	Elle y est allée tous les jours pendant cinq ans
Dinosaurs lived on earth for millions of years		Les dinosaures ont vécu sur la terre pendant des millions d'années

61. The Imperfect is ALWAYS used

a) where English has `WAS . . . ING / WERE . . . ING' or `USED TO . . .'

b) to translate `WAS / WERE ABOUT TO' — Il était sur le point de partir quand elle est arrivée

c) to render a past tense after

- comme (`as') - pendant que (`while') - juste au moment où (`just as')

-	As he got off the train he slipped	:	Comme il descendait du train il a glissé
-	While she did the washing up I read a book	:	Pendant qu'elle faisait la vaisselle j'ai lu un livre
-	Just as he stood up he heard a shout	:	Juste au moment où il se levait il a entendu un cri

62. Cases where the English simple past tense is NOT translated by the French Imperfect tense

i) when recording that `IT WAS' at a particular moment that an event happened ie when the emphasis comes at the beginning of a sentence as in the following examples:

- It was last week that I saw her : C'est la semaine dernière que je l'ai vue
- It was in 1974 that we went there : C'est en 1974 que nous y sommes allés
- It was in this café that I first met her : C'est dans ce café que je l'ai rencontrée pour la première fois

ii) Where the past tense records a reaction, change of state or successive stages in narration

- nb the following words accompanying a verb indicate a change of state, a reaction or successive stages in the narration, and therefore dictate the use of the Perfect or Past historic d'abord (at first) - soudain / tout à coup (suddenly) - puis / ensuite (then / next) tout de suite (immediately) - encore (again) - enfin (finally)

- Then I was sure that ..... : Puis j'ai été sûr que ....

- At first he didn't want to believe me : D'abord il n'a pas voulu me croire

- I knew immediately that ... : J'ai su tout de suite que ....

Note the following example of successive stages in narration:

D'abord le professeur a frappé à la porte, puis il est entré; tout de suite il a parlé aux élèves et enfin il s'est assis

NB `WHEN s.o. WAS ---- (and then) he DID such & such a thing : this common sequence also requires the `was' to be rendered by the Perfect or Past Historic since it records a change of state

- When I was sure I left — Quand j'ai été sûr je suis parti
- When we were ready we went downstairs — Quand nous avons été prêts nous sommes descendus

iii) in contexts where there is a marker LIMITING THE DURATION (HOWEVER LONG) of an event/state/movement/action (Examples of such markers are underlined)

- There was a few moments' silence : Il y a eu quelques moments de silence
- There were two centuries of peace : Il y a eu deux siècles de paix
- Dinner that evening was much too long : Le dîner ce soir-là a été beaucoup trop long

iv) in passive structures where `WAS' / `WERE' record one event in the past

- She was run over by a car : Elle a été écrasée par une voiture
- It was built in the sixteenth century : Il a été construit au seizième siècle

NB DISTINGUISH between elle était blessée (DESCRIPTION OF STATE) and elle a été blessée (THE ACTION OF BEING WOUNDED)

v) to translate `WAS / WERE BORN'

- She was born : elle EST née - I was born : Je SUIS né(e)

63. SUCH

You must distinguish whether the "such" is qualifying an adjective or a noun.
SUCH + NOUN - use one of tel / telle / tels / telles (ie it is an adjective) but pay great attention to the French word order.

- such a problem : un tel problème - such a house : une telle maison
- such problems : de tels problèmes - such houses : de telles maisons

Des must contract to de when it comes before a plural adjective. Since tel is an adjective the plural forms will always be de tels . . . (masculine), or de telles . . . (feminine)

SUCH + ADJECTIVE + NOUN - use si
Leave the adjective in its NORMAL POSTION and place si in front of it:

- a beautiful house : une belle maison
- such a beautiful house : une si belle maison
- such beautiful houses : DE si belles maisons

- an interesting film : un film intéressant
- such an interesting film : un film si intéressant
- such interesting films : DES films si intéressants

NB The position of the adjective varies, so . . .
- If it comes before the noun the plural will always be de si . . . + ADJ + NOUN;
- if it comes after the noun the plural will always be des + NOUN + si + ADJ
