EW 9 THE PRESENT PARTICIPLE

49. THE PRESENT PARTICIPLE is formed by adding -ANT to the stem of the nous form of the present tense:

lançons : lançant — mangeons : mangeant - finissons : finissant

There are only 3 IRREGULARS - être : étant — avoir : ayant - savoir : sachant

50. EN is the ONLY preposition that can be used with the Present Participle

— This means 1 of 4 things : by doing something while doing something on doing something in doing something — Sometimes there is no by/while/in/on in English, but EN + PRESENT PARTICIPLE is still used when the action recorded by the -ING verb is simultaneous with the action recorded by the main verb which comes before it:

e.g. - "Look out!" he shouted, opening the door

"Attention!" a-t-il crié en ouvrant la porte

- He thanked her getting out of the lift

Il l'a remerciée en sortant de l'ascenseur

If the preposition before the English -ing construction is anything other than by/while/in/on (eg before -ing) you will probably be using an infinitive after the French preposition. (See below)

51. The Present participle is used WITHOUT en

i) where the -ING verb gives a reason for the action of the main verb
e.g. Knowing that she liked cheese, I bought some Brie Sachant qu'elle aimait le fromage, j'ai acheté du Brie

ii) where the action recorded by the -ING verb does not happen at the same time as the action recorded by the main verb, but rather records the following action
e.g. She went in, closing the door behind her Elle est entrée, fermant la porte derrière elle

52. Note the following idiomatic use of EN + PRESENT PARTICIPLE with verbs of motion — to run in : entrer en courant

— to run off : partir en courant
— to run out : sortir en courant -

— to run upstairs : monter en courant
— to run downstairs : descendre en courant

He ran downstairs : Il est descendu en courant OR il a descendu l'escalier en courant

53. After verbs of perception (seeing etc) what appears to be a present participle in English will be an infinitive in French or you may use a clause using the imperfect tense:

He saw her walking down the street : Il l'a vue marcher dans la rue or Il l'a vue qui marchait dans la rue

54. IN NONE OF THE ABOVE USES OF THE PRESENT PARTICIPLE DOES THE PARTICIPLE EVER AGREE IN NUMBER OR GENDER.

eg She ran outside : Elle est sortie en courant
She came in smiling : Elle est entrée en souriant

55. AFTER DOING SOMETHING (après avoir / être + past participle)

a) for verbs that use avoir as an auxiliary, take après avoir and add the past participle

e.g. After seeing the film, we went home at midnight
Après avoir vu le film, nous sommes rentrés à minuit

If there is a direct object pronoun used with the après avoir construction the past participle will agree with the direct object in the same way as it does in compound tenses

After listening to them we put the records away Après les avoir écoutés nous avons rangé les disques

b) for verbs that use être as an auxiliary take après être and add the past participle. This must be made to AGREE WITH THE SUBJECT of the following clause.

e.g. After coming so far, she refused to wait Après être venue si loin, elle a refusé d'attendre

c) for reflexive verbs (take one of après m'être / après t'être / après s'être / après nous être / après vous être or après s'être and add the past participle. Make sure you use the appropriate reflexive pronoun for the subject of the sentence. It is important that you check the rules for agreement of the participle on pages 10 and 11.

e.g. After going to bed early, she couldn't get to sleep Après s'être couchée de bonne heure, elle n'a pas pu s'endormir

After washing our hands, we went upstairs
Après nous être lavé les mains, nous sommes montés

BUT After wondering if she would come they rested Après s'être demandé si elle viendrait ils se sont reposés

NB après avoir & après être + PAST PARTICIPLE can ONLY be used where the subject of the après avoir/après être verb is also the subject of the following verb.

56. BEFORE DOING SOMETHING : avant de + INFINITIVE

With reflexive verbs, be careful about choosing the right reflexive pronoun (me, te, se, nous, vous, se) in front of the infinitive.

e.g. Before putting on my gloves, I had to go and fetch them upstairs Avant de mettre mes gants, j'ai dû aller les chercher en haut

Before going to bed, I always have a glass of milk
Avant de me coucher, je bois toujours un verre de lait

57. IN ORDER TO DO SOMETHING : pour + INFINITIVE / afin de + INFINITIVE

— In order to be on time : Pour être à l'heure
— In order not to miss the train : Pour ne pas manquer le train
— In order to do it : Pour le faire

58. WITHOUT DOING SOMETHING : sans + INFINITIVE

— I went in without paying : Je suis entré sans payer
— He went out without looking at me: Il est sorti sans me regarder

59. Only 2 verbs in French can be followed by PAR + INFINITIVE to begin by doing something : commencer par faire qch

to end up doing something : finir par faire qch

— If you begin by smoking 1 cigarette a day, you end up smoking 20
Si on commence par fumer une cigarette par jour, on finit par en fumer 20
